Counsel:

As we approach the substantial completion deadline for document production, we are writing to confirm arrangements for the production of film footage to your office.

As I previously noted, the data is voluminous, estimated to be around 100 TB of data. Our e-discovery vendor advises that the fastest and most secure means of producing the data is by delivery of encrypted hard drives directly to your office. We anticipate substantially completing this production and delivery by July 1, with the few remaining hard drives to arrive shortly thereafter next week. Please advise as soon as possible which of your physical office locations you would like to receive the hard drives.

Alternatively, our vendor has advised that we can also make the footage data available through an S3 bucket accessible through the Internet. The volume of data would require substantial processing time to upload, with an estimated delivery date of 3-10 days from now. However, this option would enable your various team members to access the data remotely and simultaneously. If you prefer this option, please advise us as soon as possible so that we can immediately begin the upload process.
